Brookfield Inocent (ISH)

Interview: Brookfield Inocent's Breeder, John Mulvey Insights: Harnessing genetic data Investment: The importance of foal and mare nutrition

Welcome

In this edition of HSI Breeder maaazine, we have an insightful article from John Mulvey who discusses the back pedigree to some of his most successful horses including Brookfield Inocent (ISH), the current 4th position event horse in the world according to the World Breeding Federation for Sport Horses Eventing studbook rankings. John's story, told in his own words, highlights the ups and downs for small breeders - the very backbone of the Irish sport horse industry. Meanwhile, Dr Alan Hurley, an equine genetics specialist, provides highlights from his recent Teagasc publication "Genetics and Breeding of Irish Horses" book. Alan's research highlights the important role that equine genetic data plays in breeding, and how breeders can harness that power for future genetic improvement. Elsewhere, Joanne Hurley of Gain Equine Nutrition provides some useful insights for breeders regarding the importance of applying an appropriate nutrition strategy from conception right up to foal and beyond. Horse Sport Ireland will continue to host targeted breed improvement schemes with the support of funding from the Department of Agriculture, Food and the Marine. This year, we will be restructuring the performance criteria and total scheme funding allocations to ensure our schemes are widely accessible to Irish breeders and continue to benefit the genetic improvement and conservation of Irish horses. We are also embarking upon a significant DNA database update, by commencing a transitioning of DNA testing from Microsatellite Polymorphism (SNP) technology. The advancement in DNA technology over the past 20 years and the introduction of SNP technology has extended the suite of DNA applications, which were previously unavailable through the current MS technology. Since 2009, most livestock species have been using SNP technology to adopt genomic breeding programs, which have increased reliability over traditional methods using pedigree and performance data, to enhance breed/ farm management decisions. Equine owners that also keep cattle or sheep will be aware that this SNP test technology are commonly used for enhancing estimated breeding values, inbreeding analysis (improved mating decision making), parent assignment, breed assignment, single gene traits (coat colour) and genetic disease testing (e.g. Fragile Foal Syndrome). When complete, later this year, breeders will immediately benefit from the transition. where results for the above applications could be collated from the one sample. Further to this, the transition will see much shorter DNA processing times which will be of huge benefit to our passport and registrations unit.

(MS) to Single Nucleotide

These are exciting times do keep an eye to the HSI website, social media and equine media publications for details of upcoming breeding initiatives.

Best wishes with your breeding decisions for the upcoming season and we look forward to meeting you out and about at various HSI events throughout the year.

Small and mighty

Breeder and producer John Mulvey writes about his own experience as a breeder, why he believes size matters, and the HSI supports that are helping him expand Breeding happened by accident for me. I was breaking a young mare, Shalies Pet (ISH), mother of Brookfield Inocent (ISH), and she had an injury which was going to leave her 'not rideable'. I had a discussion with her owner who was a very good client of mine. He decided he didn't want to go down the breeding route, but he kindly offered that I could have the mare if I wanted to breed from her.

She bred four or five foals and I gave her to a friend of mine, and he bred some foals from her. I got her back and bred Brookfield Inocent (ISH), her second last foal, who I kept. He was a colourful character when he was a younger horse, he was a bit hardy, but he was good-looking and a beautiful horse to ride. He had everything in his arsenal to be an eventer. He was a bit difficult and, to be brutally honest, I didn't think he had the head to get it done. He was sold in Goresbridge to Brian Lusk in England, a customer of ours. He then went to English-based Australian international event rider Kevin McNabb. Kevin put all the work into him to get him up to top level and then Piggy took him over and he won the European silver and team gold last year.

We have another mare now, Tullibards Lux Sensational (ISH), who again came to me because she had to be sold, and I ended up buying her myself. She had a little internal injury, if she had been riding, she would have ended up sore or lame. She's been a very good mare: her first foal, Luxity (ISH) by OBOS Quality (OLD), is now jumping Grand Prix in Ireland with Lee Carey. Her second foal, Tranquility Bay (ISH), we sold at the Goresbridge Breeders Classic Sale to Richard Bourns, and he represented Ireland last year as a six-year-old in the World Breeders Championship where he qualified for the final. Having him as a foal then seeing him jump in a world final, that was terrific. She has three other foals that are with Patricia Greer at Ballymoss Stud: A four-year-old by Cornet Obolensky (BWP) (GSS Impulse (ISH)), an Emerald two-year-old (GSS Highlight) and another Emerald (BWP) filly yearling this year (GSS Extra (ISH)). We retained one Emerald filly from the Luz Z (HANN) mare to continue her line, as she is a fantastic mare, she is an athlete.

Breaking and training

My main job was breaking and training younger horses and getting them going. I kept putting breeding on the long finger, it wasn't something I was mad keen to get into, as it's a long wait from the time they're foals until they're riding. I'm primarily a jumper so I look to breed a jumper. My dream would be to have a horse good enough to do the likes of Cameron Hanley, that they could go and jump big classes. We are looking to breed a commercial horse, to be as nice a breeding as you can possibly have. Blood enough: I know Brookfield Inocent (ISH) was 80% blood, but I've had horses with a whole lot less blood – it just depends on the horse's attitude. We are looking to breed a horse that will be good enough to jump different levels. They nearly have to be a top jumper to be a top eventer. It used to be a failed jumper would go eventing, it's not like that anymore. If they've a good temperament and a good attitude to their job, then you should always be able to sell them.

Tullibards Lux Sensational (ISH).

Breeding belief

The hard part of being a breeder is having all of our eggs in one basket. I've always had one mare, and I didn't really want to keep more than one mare because it can be time consuming, and it can be very expensive if things go wrong. If your foal comes out small, or crooked or twisted, we are down a whole year's money.

The only reason I'm doing it is because the mare we have is fantastic and the back breeding is tremendous. Shalies Pet (ISH), we were lucky to get what we got from her, I think. But Tullibards Lux Sensational (ISH) is breeding very, very consistently. Kerrie Anderson and I do a lot of breeding together and because we've only got one mare and we want to make some money, we try and pick a commercial stallion. For example, Emerald has been very good for us: he jumped the Olympics and he's a very well thought of stallion. As for the mare, Tullibards Lux Sensational (ISH), I knew what she could do, but other people didn't know what she was breeding, and it's only now that people are looking for foals off the mare because they know she is breeding very well. We've also taken some embryos from her, and we got three Ramiro B (BWP) embryos. One of them is in England, one is up the North, jumping five-year-old class, and my partner in the training business, Olga Harrington bought the third one. We are going to keep her and jump her a little bit and probably take some embryos from her too. I will be doing a lot of the riding on her. We have to be prepared to keep what we breed, that doesn't necessarily mean they are going to be bad horses, but people are less inclined to take a risk on a foal unless it looks great and moves fantastic. We kept the three Ramiro B's (BWP), simply because on paper they weren't as commercial as, say, the Emerald (BWP) or the Cornet Obolensky (BWP). I'm not going to say they are going to be top class horses, but they are really nice, have a good temperament and are very trainable. The one that I have here, a lovely mare, is very trainable. She's only been to two little shows, and she looks like she's going to be a very nice horse in time. It is a balancing act.

Strong supports

All the incentives that the HSI are bringing in now are terrific. They're recognising the breeders more. Brookfield Inocent (ISH) put my name up in lights on several occasions which is nice for me, and people ask "well what have you got now?" It's great to be able to say that I have a nice mare that's breeding really nice horses. Last year we went to Lanaken in Belgium to watch Tranquility Bay (ISH) jump. A breeders prize from the Breeders Classic paid for our trip out.

We also availed of the HSI x-ray scheme where the horses are vetted and x-rayed, it's terrific, as is the embryo scheme. The mare has been breeding very well, if she has an embryo transferred, I can get a grant for that. We haven't availed of that as yet, but I think this year we will. Her daughter has been approved for that and will be eligible for the x-ray scheme as well. I'm really happy with what they are trying to do.

Mounting obstacles

The biggest issue is the cost of everything. We've been very lucky that the mare has paid her way. We are confident enough that if there is a live foal on the ground, she is 90% going to pay her way unless there is something majorly wrong. And that's the difficulty, we spend a particular amount of money getting her in foal and there is always a risk that you could lose the foal, or the mare and foal. The dodgy time is foaling time, she could foal 20 foals and then the 21st foal will take her. We have a four-year-old filly in foal this year, the Tullibards mare isn't, because she was late last year. There were a few little problems with her insides that we needed to address. They're the risks, the vet expenses add up. Another difficult area is the quality of semen that people are sending in seems to have changed. Frozen semen seems to be getting a whole lot worse and we are at the mercy of the quality. We use Larry Dunne as our vet, we'd be lost without him. I think he's one of the best in the business. I've often said to him I'd like to use that semen and he would say there is no point as the quality isn't good enough.

Prime provenance

If you are going to be a small breeder, you need to have a very good mare with a good backline. She preferably needs to be an athlete herself. Tullibards Lux Sensational (ISH) as a young horse won her RDS qualifier and was fourth in the fouryear-old final in Dublin. She is a real athlete. When we went to go breeding with her and we looked at her backline, her half-sisters and her brothers have all been good breeders, breeding very nice horses, horses of a good level. I know my mare didn't jump any more than a four-year-old, but we know she was going to jump Grand Prix. But we didn't know what she was going to breed. We bred the first one, Luxity (ISH), and sold him as a three-year-old and he really lit us up. As a loose three-year-old, he was the best horse I ever had. Everything else she has had, we've been lucky enough to sell as foals because it's a long way to keep them from foals to three-year-old, to keep them alive and sound. When we pick a stallion too, we try to look at the backline to the mother of the stallion's backline, I like to make sure she is consistent, that she hasn't just bred one 'freak'. I'm not in breeding to make a lot of money. It gives us an added bit of income; we can use the revenue from that maybe to change the truck to keep us on the road.

Future plans

We are really looking forward to following and supporting Tranquility Bay (ISH). He's currently on his way to the sunshine tour in MET Olivia in Spain to jump some international classes. He's going to jump out there for three or four weeks and then hopefully he'll jump some of the big seven-year-old classes, and he'll progress on. I'm very excited about him. The foal the mare had this year, in Ballymoss Stud, I'm looking forward to seeing her. She is by Emerald (BWP) and I was very tempted to keep hold of her. I'm looking forward to seeing what she ends up being, I'd be extremely disappointed if she didn't end up being a really nice horse. I'd like to see Luxity (ISH) perform well, too. He's just coming eight-years-old now. Lee tells me he is going to try and jump Grand Prixs this year, so hopefully that will work.

Improving the genetic merit of the Irish Sport Horse

Dr Alan M. Hurley, Teagasc Equine Specialist

The sport horse industry in Ireland is a growing, vibrant and diverse one, contributing substantially to the overall economy. The sector was estimated to be worth €816 million; a significant part of this is breeding. While some Irish Sport Horses are performing very well on the world stage, the overall Irish sport horse industry is not realising its full potential. It is apparent that competitor studbooks are overtaking the Irish Sport Horse studbook in the World Breeding Federation for Sport Horses rankings. Nonetheless, significant genetic advances can be achieved in the coming years if an optimal breeding approach is implemented. This will require significant acceptance from breeders and industry both in terms of recording data and implementation of available resources.

The story so far

Over the last century, the productivity of domesticated animals has increased substantially in line with scientific advances in several areas. Primarily, the introduction of quantitative genetics beginning in the 1930s has greatly enhanced the rate of change. Furthermore, improvements in animal nutrition enabled animals to reach their genetic potential, while improvements in reproductive technologies allowed producers to accelerate genetic gain by only selecting genetically elite animals to reproduce. In several species, technological developments and computerised record-keeping facilitated accurate identification of genetically elite animals. Genetic evaluations exploited the resulting data to ensure superior genotypes were selected to suit a particular breeding goal, thereby enhancing genetic gain. In horses, the contribution of breeding to improvements in performance has been much slower in the past decades.

Equine genetics are not always fully utilised by breeders when planning coverings. I believe breeders should apply theories that are scientifically based. In addition, many equine genetic terms commonly used by animal breeders to describe the characteristics of a population are sometimes mis-understood and mis-interpreted and need to be properly understood by horse breeders.

The power of genetics

To recognise this gap in knowledge, I developed a book entitled 'Genetics and Breeding of Irish Horses'. The book highlights the importance of equine genetics and illustrates how breeders can improve the genetic merit of Irish horses backed by science. It stresses the importance of selectivity, where breeders use the best sires and dams, to genetically improve a population, in a certain direction, based on a defined breeding goal. The chapters included are Basic Equine Genetics, Pedigree and Breeding Schemes, Genetics of Coat Colour, Scientific Breeding Programmes, Performance Genetics, Health Genetics and Critical Factors to Consider Before Breeding a Sport Horse. Common guestions submitted from breeders are addressed while a final chapter discusses the future of the sport horse breeding industry, discussing genomic selection, inbreeding and the genetics of complex traits. Some European Sport Horse studbooks have recognised the power of genetics to selectively breed higher genetic merit horses utilising some of the technology described in the book. At its most fundamental level, genetics involves the passing of genes (both favourable and unfavourable) from parents to offspring, and unlike management (e.g., nutrition, exercise, and health protocol) genetic selection is permanent and cumulative. This suggests that genetic gain can be progressively improved generation by generation. Genetic selection as well as optimum management, when used together, provides the best opportunity for improvement, yielding enormous benefits over time. For example, if a breeder introduces good genetics for traits such as soundness, performance and athleticism, these can be improved with each generation. In direct contrast, however, any indirect consequences of breeding are also compounded with successive generations. It is imperative that breeding schemes are optimised to achieve gains in performance, where possible. All traits effecting performance should be accounted within a balanced breeding goal.

Unlocking the puzzle

When evaluating a pedigree, breeders are trying to identify key traits that the horse has potentially inherited from its ancestors. Today, it is possible to assess the exact DNA makeup of a horse, as opposed to the inferred genetic make-up that is assumed from pedigree. Although pedigree offers a wealth of information, there are occasions where pedigree can be misleading. This is where an evaluation of DNA can unlock some of the puzzle.

Genomics is the study of an animal's DNA which are the building blocks of genes. The horse genome was sequenced in 2007 with the final report published in 2009. As a result, equine researchers can now understand how differences in a horse's DNA make that individual horse unique. It is now possible to take a blood, hair or tissue sample from a new-born foal to determine its complete DNA profile and this can be used to predict the subsequent performance of that individual. For example, mature height and muscle mass can be difficult to estimate in a young foal but genetic testing of the same foal can give an insight into the physical makeup as a mature horse. In addition, because DNA is transmitted from one generation to the next, the DNA of a foal (e.g., potential stallion) could also be used to predict the expected performance of its progeny. Genomics has significant potential and is already used in sport horse studbooks such as the KWPN. In 2016, the KWPN studbook introduced genomic breeding values for Osteochondritis dissecans (OCD). Breeders are provided with an estimate of the likelihood the horse will pass OCD to the next generation. Equine breeders understandably take pride in their knowledge of pedigrees and conformation. They appreciate the importance of having an ability to design matings that produce horses that are genetically better than those of the previous generation. Through advancements in genetic technologies, such as the use of genomics, some of the guesswork involved in matings will be reduced, while the chances of producing a foal with the necessary genetic attributes for their chosen discipline will be significantly improved. By selecting desirable traits within a balanced breeding programme, horses could not only become stronger and more athletic but can also become healthier.

Expert insights

Teagasc Director Professor Frank O'Mara commented: "The equine industry is a growing, vibrant and diverse one which contributes substantially to the overall economy. This book highlights the importance of equine genetics and breeding for the industry as a whole. It stresses the importance of selectivity and using the best males and females to genetically improve a population, in a certain direction, based on a predefined goal."

Professor Donagh Berry, Teagasc and VistaMilk, said: "Luck is the key ingredient to breeding a successful animal. A wellstructured breeding programme, however, improves the mean performance of the population as well as increasing the chances of breeding that successful animal. Using his education on cattle genetics, Alan has elegantly and succinctly compiled the key components and blueprint of a successful breeding programme in horses."

FEI WBFSH World Breeding Eventing Championships for Young Horses 2021

The FEI WBFSH World Breeding Eventing Championships for Young Horses 2021 took place at Le Lion d'Angers in France last October. Speaking at the Irish team selection, Chef d'Equipe Janet Murray said: "We have a good mix of seasoned Le Lion riders and first timers who are in for an eye-opening experience amongst the world's best. It is a little disappointing to travel without some high-profile combinations but the current high demand for good horses is very welcome for owners and riders alike. It promises to be a great week of competition."

Janet was accurate in her prediction with the event transpiring to be an exceptional showcase of Irish-bred horses. Half of the top ten finishers in the six-year-old class were Irish-bred, including third place Bonmahon Chealsea (ISH). Meath's Sarah Ennis was the highest-placed Irish rider in seventh place with Dourough Ferro Class Act (ISH), bred by Gordon Drury in Co. Cavan. See below for the Irish-bred horses in the top ten.

There was excitement for the Irish team in the seven-year-old class, too, with Cooley Snapchat (ISH) bred in Co. Limerick by Alan Wheeler, taking third place in the final. Four Irish Sport Horses finished inside the top 10, with Cathal Daniels the highest-placed Irish rider in 14th with LEB Empress (ISH), bred in Co. Waterford by Jo Breheny. See below for the Irish-bred horses in the top ten.

Joanne Hurley of GAIN Equine Nutrition writes about the importance of mare nutrition, and its lasting effects on the growing foal.

Nourishing the broodmare through pregnancy and lactation

Taking care of your mares' nutrition in pregnancy and lactation will ensure that you maximise the return on your investment and achieve better health for both the mare and developing foal. Optimal nutrition of the mare throughout pregnancy is critical to ensure correct skeletal development of the foal and good quality colostrum production. Although the foetus generally gains a modest proportion of its foaling weight in the first seven months of pregnancy, a well-balanced diet is vital from conception to provide all the necessary nutrients to support the growth and differentiation of tissues in the foetus. This improves the health of the neonatal foal and ensures normal development throughout the whole pregnancy. Broodmares in pregnancy have specific nutritional requirements that must be met. In later pregnancy, the foetus grows rapidly, particularly over the last four months of gestation. Digestible energy requirements increase only by a relatively small amount, about 15% in later pregnancy. During this time, nutrient requirements are generally met by good quality forage and an appropriate amount of complete stud feed or a comprehensive stud balancer. Trace mineral supplementation is very important during this period as the foetus stores iron, zinc, copper and manganese in its liver for use during the first few months of life. Oversupply of calories in late gestation should be avoided.

If the pregnant mare becomes overweight during late pregnancy, (later foaling mares are most susceptible, particularly in areas where grass has become plentiful in spring months) this may lead to difficulty in foaling. Barren mares that are being bred will benefit from being fed prior to conception, and then through early pregnancy with a highquality balancer that will provide essential micronutrients and quality amino acids during the early developmental stages of pregnancy.

Vitamin E is absolutely vital for broodmares during pregnancy. Broodmares that have little access to green grass or good quality hay/haylage are at risk of a reduced vitamin E intake. These mares should be fed a concentrate feed with high levels of vitamin E which has shown to improve immune responses to vaccination and increase immunoglobulin IgG in the milk.

After foaling, the mare's milk is the main source of nutrients for the growing foal and her nutrient requirements increase significantly during the first three months of lactation in particular. It is essential that newborn foals receive adequate quantity and quality of colostrum in the first 24 hours of life to provide them with immunity from microbial challenges in their environment. During the first three months of lactation, mares produce milk at a rate equal to about 3% of their body weight per day. This milk is rich in energy, protein, calcium, phosphorus and vitamins. Energy requirements significantly increase during lactation. If the mare does not receive adequate nutrition during this period, she may dip into her own body reserves and lose condition. Rebreeding may then be problematic. Therefore, the mare should be fed appropriate concentrates. For mares that are more likely to lose condition, introduce a feed with higher calories in conjunction with good quality forage to meet these increased requirements. Later foaling mares or those foaling at a time of peak grass growth may be fed a high specification, low calorie concentrate.

Feeding the growing horse

A typical foal will achieve about 86% of its mature height and 46% of its mature weight in the first six months of life. Growth in these early stages results in the laying down of new tissues, building bone, tendon, ligament, muscle etc. The foal's diet needs to supply sufficient nutrients to meet this growth. A young suckling foal will meet its nutrient requirements providing the mare is well nourished. Some foals may need additional feed as milk production diminishes (typically after three months of lactation)

- · Gradually introduce the foal to concentrate
- Creep feed separately from mare to control intake
- Feed specific products which require a low feed intake high concentration of protein, vitamins and minerals
- Feed a concentrate containing milk-based proteins which are both high in quality and easy for the developing foal to digest

As the foal develops, forage will become a larger part of its diet. Energy, protein and amino acid intake have the greatest impact on the growth and development of growing horses. A source of good quality protein is essential to ensure proper bone and muscle formation.

Rapidly growing and heavy topped foals can be those most prone to the onset of Developmental Skeletal Problems (DSP), which includes conditions such as physitis and osteochondritis dissecans. Careful monitoring of stock is necessary to ensure a steady, even growth curve is achieved in the first year in particular.

- Promote a moderate steady growth rate, particularly avoiding periods of low growth followed by periods of rapid growth (commonly referred to a 'compensatory growth'
- Diets should contain adequate but not excess energy
- Calcium and phosphorus ratios should be maintained, ideally 2:1 ratios
- Maintain adequate intakes of minerals including calcium, phosphorus, magnesium, copper, zinc, manganese etc.
- Provide an opportunity for sufficient but not excessive exercise
- As there is a genetic link to Developmental Skeletal problems, avoid breeding mares to stallions that have produced a number of foals with DSP (this information is not available across all breeds)
- Studies have shown a link between the glycaemic index of the diet and the onset of OCD in particular
- Consult with your farrier, vet and a feed nutritionist if you have concerns over DSP in your foal/weanling

Premium Stud balancers have a role to play in the diet of heavy topped youngstock or those showing signs of the onset of developmental skeletal problems as they supply the optimum level of nutrients without excess calories. Gradual introduction of concentrate feed will help to reduce the stress of weaning at any age; once a foal is weaned, it is important that it has a quality source of lysine and threonine in their diet. While these nutrients are limiting for proper growth, they are not the only nutritional need of the foal. Sufficient quantities of minerals and vitamins are essential for proper development and health. These also need to be in balance with one another. Commercial feeds are designed with these critical balances in mind.

In focus: Loose Jumping

Luke McAvinue

Horse Sport Ireland has run its winter loose jumping competitions for three and four-year-old fillies since 2017. The aim of these competitions is to identify young performance animals for future production of international sport horses. For the first time, there were classes added for young colts this year. The three and four-year-old colt classes ran alongside three and four-year-old Traditional Irish Horse colt classes, aiming to provide Traditional Irish Horse breeders the opportunity to showcase their future stallions. The competitions are open to all animals registered with a DAFM- and WBFSH-approved studbook and have proven very popular with breeders and producers around Ireland.

Commandant Geoff Curran has judged the HSI's loose jumping competitions since their initiation. Speaking about the success of the competition he said he can see improvements year on year, "Thanks to the HSI breeding policy, worldclass performance pedigrees are coming to the fore and because of classes such as these and the other breeding and production schemes on offer from Horse Sport Ireland, it offers breeders and producers every opportunity to progress in the right direction. Congratulations to the Department of Agriculture, Food and the Marine and all in Horse Sport Ireland for recognising the need for these classes and keeping these initiatives progressing in the right direction."

Star Students

As many of the mares from the early years of competition are now becoming well-established under saddle, we thought it appropriate to shine a light on just some of the graduates of the loose jumping competitions.

Those with a keen eye on the young horse circuit around Europe will know about the 2014 mare, GCS Athena (ISH). By Vigo D'Arsouilles (BWP) out of the Numero Uno (KWPN) mare called MHS Attraction (ISH), GCS Athena (ISH) was bred by Olivia Brennan, and is now owned in partnership with Miguel Bravo. This mare has gone from strength to strength, she began her career by winning the three-year-old filly loose jumping competition at Warrington Top Flight Equestrian Centre in 2017. In 2021 under the guidance of Mikey Pender, she competed in the World Breeding Championships for Young Horses in Lanaken, finishing 12th, with an unfortunate pole costing them a top five position.

On home soil, this same pairing also won the first leg of the seven-year-old ISH Studbook Series back in April 2021, beating her second-place rival by over two and a half seconds in the jump off.

Furthermore, her progeny has shown to be impressive this far. GCS Athena (ISH) took part in HSI's Embryo Transfer Scheme in 2017, helping to produce top-quality offspring while continuing Meadows Equestrian Centre -ISH Studbook Series - 7yo Winner - Michael Pender & GCS Athena (ISH), owner Olivia Brennan and Miguel Bravo. seven-year-old ISH Studbook Series qualifier final in Coilog Equestrian Centre in July 2021. Emelee won the four-year-old class at Wexford Equestrian in 2018. The mare, out of a Lux Z (HANN) dam, was bred by John J Hassett but is now owned and competed by Catriona who made the leap to the 1.30m classes towards the end of this season. Emelee has produced six foals, three colts and three fillies by Untouchable 27 (KWPN), Chacco Bay (OLD) and Zirocco Blue VDL (SF). Of course, we can't forget the quality ponies that also competed in the HSI loose jumping competitions alongside the horses. Borris OB (ISH), a chestnut mare owned by Frank and Judy Quirke, took first place in 2017 in the three-year-old filly pony class in Warrington Top Flight Equestrian Centre. In 2018, the O.B.O.S. Quality 004 (OLD) mare went on to win the fouryear-old filly pony class in 2018, showing the consistency of her performance ability. Since then, she has gone on to be ridden in the Showjumping Ireland National Pony Championships, where she jumped in the six/seven-year-old starfinder class, with an unfortunate pole in the second round of jumping. Overall, the feedback from owners and breeders has been very positive over the last number of years. Interim Director of Breeding, Dr Sonja Egan, commented: "The introduction of the winter loose jumping competitions in 2017 has provided breeders and producers of young horses with a brilliant opportunity to showcase their three and four-year-old horse and pony fillies. These classes allow breeders and producers to gain beneficial feedback from expert judging panels regarding the ability of their fillies, and this year, colts. These classes provide many young horses with an introductory experience to an external competition type environment and support the progression of their experience and confidence 'away from home'. The quality and presentation of fillies has improved year after year, with many successful graduates! These classes have become very much a part of the annual young stock competition calendar and I hope to continue to see them grow in popularity in 2022."

her training and schooling. Her 2018 colt by SIEC Livello (HOLST), GCS Othello (ISH) competed in the 2021 loose jumping competition in Warrington Equestrian and came in second place.

The ISH Studbook series has thrown up a number of other HSI-sponsored, loose jumping alumni. MVS Granflor (ISH), the 2015 mare by Floris TN (KWPN) bred by Seamus Heverin, was the winner of the three-year-old filly class at the loose jumping held in Cavan Equestrian Centre in 2018. In 2021, she took part in the six-year-old ISH Studbook Series Championship in Cavan Equestrian Centre, captained by Gabriel Slattery Jnr, where she came in joint first place. Similarly, Catriona Redmond's Emerald Van't Ruytershof (BWP) mare, Emelee (ISH), won the

Foal Championships, a reflection

Conor Sheridan

Since its inauguration in 2015, the HSI Foal Championship has sought to identify and evaluate foals with the potential to be competitive at the highest international level.

Foals are judged under the criteria of functional conformation, walk, trot, canter, overall athleticism, and balance as well as pedigree, with bonus points available for foals from successful competition families. Over the past seven years, several of these foals have come of age to begin their competitive career. For Galway breeder and producer Olive Clarke, 2015 saw FSS Zodiac (ISH) take the Reserve Showjumping Filly Championship in Millstreet. The Cornet Obolensky (BWP) mare is out of Olive's 1.50m competitor Paradise G (KNHS) by Indoctro (KWPN), including twice placing in the Hickstead Speed Derby. FSS Zodiac (ISH) has since gone on to compete in her first 1.30m classes in 2021 for the Four Seasons Stables rider. In 2016, Olive was again back to the HSI Foal Championship, this time taking the top placing in the Showjumping Colt Foal Championship with FSS Freestyle (ISH). The colt, by Plot Blue (KWPN), has since been exported to the USA where he competed for a time under the saddle of Freestyling Farms Jill Gaffney.

"The HSI Foal Championship has been extremely useful in the development of our breeding programme," Olive told HSI. "We try to match our mares with stallions that we feel will improve the quality of the young stock. Presenting them at the foal selection days has allowed us to get fair, unbiased assessments from some of the sport's top judges. It also allows us to see what other breeders are using and what types and characteristics stallions are producing."

"With FSS Zodiac (ISH), we allowed her to prove herself in sport up to 1.30m level in Ireland before we decided to take a foal from her. She is due to Zirocco Blue (SF) for 2022. In 2020, Zodiac's half-brother, FSS Knockout (ISH) by Tyson (KWPN), was also Reserve Champion Showjumping Colt foal. The class has been a great shop window for us as we sold Freestyle after winning the final. Knockout has been sold to the same people as they were so happy with the first horse. They know that the foals are top quality as they have gone through the HSI process." Along with FSS Freestyle's (ISH) victory in 2016, the Showjumping Filly Foal class that year also saw an impressive line-up in the final.

New power generation

Carlow's Pam Walshe took the Reserve with another daughter of Cornet Obolensky (BWP), Cornet Q (ISH). This filly's dam, Jump The Q (ISH), is a full sister to the OBOS Quality (OLD) son, Mark Q (ISH), the Grand Prix-winning mount of Ireland's Kevin Babbington. Jump The Q (SH) is also the dam of Max Kuhner's EIC Cooley Jump The Q (ISH), by Pacino (BWP). Cornet Q (ISH) competed in the 2021 Autumn Development Series with Diarmuid Ryan and according to Pam, Cornet Q (ISH) is the only filly – so far – from Jump the Q (ISH). "We competed her lightly under saddle in 2021, and she jumped in the HSI Autumn Development Series at the end of the year. With her being the only female in the family, we've decided to put her in foal in 2022. Jump the Q (ISH) has only bred four foals, three colts and one filly, one of those being EIC Cooley Jump The Q (ISH), and she's due in 2022 again. Cornet Q (ISH) is the fifth generation of the family we bred on the farm, and we're keen to secure the next generation."

Future facing

The 2016 foal championships also saw the Colandro (HOLST) sired Silken Icon (ISH) take the win in the Eventing Colt Foal Championship for Ballinteggart Stud's Helen Troughton. As a seven-year-old, the dam, Silken Twist represented Ireland at Le Lion D'Angers in 2006 with Ross Crawford. Now competing with Irish Olympian Sarah Ennis, Silken Icon has gone on to compete in the Stepping Stones League and showjump up to 1.10m classes. The Meath-based rider is very hopeful for this horse's future. "If ever I had a horse that I thought was destined for Burghley and Badminton, this is it," says Sarah. "He's a gentle giant, standing at 17hh and has all the qualities and traits of a top event horse. He progressed very successfully through the Stepping Stones league as a four and five-year-old becoming the five-year-old champion in 2021. I'm very excited to see what the future holds for this special boy."

Better benchmarks

The HSI Foal Championship has also been a happy hunting ground for Cork breeder Kieran O'Gorman. The 2017 Championships saw his colt foal Munther's Magic (ISH), by his own thoroughbred stallion Munther (TB), claim victory. In 2018 he returned with a full sister, Munthers Babe (ISH), and picked up the Reserve Eventing Filly Champion award.

Kieran believes the HSI Foal Championship is a great initiative, 'and a great incentive for breeders to bring out their stock and get a fair assessment from knowledgeable judges. It's a great way to benchmark your stock against other foals and get some #### honest constructive feedback."

"I always look for athleticism, blood and conformation. I aim for around 75% blood or as close as I can get, and the sounder the conformation, the easier it is for these horses to stand up to what is required from them."

"I haven't missed a season since the HSI Foal Championship began, and every year I aim to be in the final of it. The thoroughbred cross on the mare by good jumping sires is one I've found works well. Munther's Magic (ISH) and Munther's Babe (ISH) are both out of my mare Brookfield Miss Lux (ISH) by Lux Z (Hann). I have Munther's Babe (ISH) in foal to the thoroughbred stallion Premier (TB) for 2022. Munther's Magic (ISH) is competing in Young Event Horse classes in the UK, so we're excited to get his sister breeding and continue the line. I'm very excited about their prospects."

Another graduate of the Eventing section of the HSI Foal Championship is the 2015 Champion filly ORS Landsdown (ISH), bred in Co. Galway by Alex Deon. This daughter of Castle Forbes Lord Lancer (OLD) is out of the Last News (TB) mare Gurraun Last Touch (AES) and competes now with Co. Waterford's Ciara Power. 2021 saw them compete successfully in E1100 classes, having also competed in the 2020 Autumn Development Arena Eventing Series.

We look forward to following the HSI Foal Championship graduates as they progress through to the world stage.

Avalon Everett, Head of Sport, Legal and Governance at Horse Sport Ireland, told us more: "We launched the HSI Club in December 2021 after 12 long months of project planning and sourcing of a suitable partner from the insurance industry. The HSI Club is major strategic initiative for Horse Sport Ireland, as identified in our corporate plan 2019-2024. By becoming a HSI Club member, members will become part of an exciting new Irish equestrian community. With four membership options available there is something for everyone, whether you own a horse or not. For Horse Sport Ireland, the Club membership offers our recreational stakeholders a membership with a built-in reassurance product. The exit of a wellknown provider in the industry, the BHS, created a lot of angst among the community and we are delighted to be able to answer that call with an Irish solution with a global brand such as Allianz. The reaction to the club has been very positive and gradually building. We have an exciting and exclusive partnership in the mix that will be announced soon, and we anticipate that will see a big growth in club members as it is one that our leisure and recreational athletes have called out for. Watch this space!"

Young Breeders

The ISH Young Breeders Programme is a joint programme between Teagasc and Horse Sport Ireland focusing primarily on the assessment of conformation and athleticism traits of eventing and show jumping horses. Training is provided across topics such as husbandry and breeding, in hand presentation, and turnout, with opportunities to compete in National and World Championship competitions. The programme is aimed at those between the ages of 15 to 25 years who are interested in assessing, exhibiting, and perhaps breeding performance horses. Participants are not required to be active breeders – interest and an eagerness to participate and learn is all that is required.

Wendy Conlon, Equine Specialist, Farm Management and Rural Development Department, Teagasc outlined the aims and achievements of the programme to date, "The vision for the Young Breeders programme is to train the breeders and industry contributors of the future while providing them opportunity to network with other like-minded individuals and also to give them a platform to engage with professionals already established in the sector."

Strong competition

Competition is part of the programme to test skills and knowledge learned and while it is not compulsory, it is encouraged. The National Championships serves as an initial selection process for World Championship participation where teams representing the ISH Studbook have experienced outstanding team and individual performances over the years winning accolades such as Reserve Studbook Champions; Junior Team World Champions and Individual Junior World Champion amongst many other excellent results. It is a testament to the success of the programme, and the value of the training provided as well as the commitment of the individuals concerned.

Industry involvement

The programme depends greatly on the involvement and support of industry leaders in terms of coaches, riders, producers, breeders and others. Every effort is made to create opportunities for participants to visit some of the best farms and yards in the country and to interact with those who are experts in their field. Young Breeders are exposed to high quality horses across the country in an effort to train their eye to the benchmarks for quality and to understand the demands in terms of horses required for show jumping and eventing.

Lifelong benefits

The skills and knowledge transferred through training serve as a foundation for those with an interest in developing their knowledge of the horse, whether purchasing a new horse, deciding which mares or stallions to use for breeding, assessing offspring or presenting horses for inspection, sale, show or competition. The programme also provides a unique opportunity for young people to meet with their peers and make contacts across Ireland and throughout the world who share their interests.

International interest

Since 2009 at international level a structure has been in place to oversee the organisation of World Championships, to continually develop new initiatives for the improvement of the World Championships and to support the various competing studbook teams. Wendy, speaking also as a member of the international committee, says: "At international level, the aspiration is to improve digital platforms, continue to grow membership and participation globally, and enable sharing of information and cross-border networking within the digital platform while strengthening relationships within the family of the World Breeding Federation for Sport Horses (WBFSH)."

Tried and trusted

David Bourke found it an excellent networking and training experience. "Having been one of the first graduates of the Young Breeders programme it gave me a great starting ground for my own breeding enterprise. I took advantage of a trip to Holstein in Germany through the programme and attended lots of on-farm training sessions. I was proud to be part of the bronze medal winning team at the World Championships in 2009 with a very strong individual performance, finishing in fourth position. I made a lot of contacts, particularly at the World Championships and with which I am still in touch today. I gained a lot of knowledge from the various professionals and trainers through the programme and encourage anyone with an interest in breeding to educate themselves first and be their mare's worst critic. The trainers have so much knowledge to share and are so willing to do so. Take advantage of the programme as it will make you a better critic."

Outstanding achievements

Irish Young Breeders have enjoyed impressive results on the world stage.

Sweden 2013 World Championships: ISH Studbook were crowned Reserve World Champions for the performances of the Junior and Senior teams combined. They were also honoured at the Falsterbo International Horse Show along with World Champions from the Holstein Studbook. Junior Orla Doorley was also World Champion in her age class and fellow Junior Alyssa O'Neill won a bronze medal.

Canada 2017 World Championships: David Browne placed eleventh individually out of 50 Juniors.

Austria 2019 World Championships: Michelle Dunne placed fifth in the In Hand Presentation discipline out of 66 Juniors, and Amy Finn placed eighth as an individual out of 71 Seniors (all disciplines combined) and eighth in Conformation Assessment.
